August/September

Editorial by Sarah

So....Bude Council in its wisdom has decided not to close The Castle, which includes the tea rooms, museum, art gallery, gift shop and other public spaces. Umm, lets just re-read that last sentence, “public spaces,” it seems as though what we want from our community buildings does not carry much weight. Then we hear that even Bude Town Council had not had the opportunity to vote on whether The Castle stayed open or not. The thing which seemed to add weight to the argument was how much had recently been spent on the new conservatory. Surely, during these times of hardship and austerity, should the project had gone ahead? Also, if after it had, should they really have been considering closing the building down? That really made good economic sense.

It really does seem as though the opinion of the people had not been taken into account at all, even with this decision you feel that it was a grumbling backtrack to save face, rather than an honest reaction to what I can only think The Council saw as a surprising upsurge. After all, they originally only allowed 15 minutes at the meeting to discuss the closure, which they had to amend to allow everyone present the chance to have their voice heard.

One in the eye for bureaucracy, and hopefully The Castle will remain a much valued and loved landmark in Bude, both for the local residents and visitors. We cannot let our landscape be slowly, and almost secretly be eroded.

CHURCH AND CHAPEL NEWS & EVENTS

JACOBSTOW CHURCH

The Gift Aid day was a great success, raising over £300 including Gift Aid.

The photographs shown include Lilies representing the W.I, the yellow flowers represent the Dog Walkers of the parish.

We are currently trying to raise money with the help of an Art Grant to repair the two large pictures of angels, one of which has very large holes. These were painted by the then rector of Week St Mary's daughter in about 1910.

This Christmas we are filling the font with coppers again, to further help the picture restoration, so please start collecting now if you want to help this cause.

Eden Chapel News

Cereal Killers services are planned for 5th & 19th August, come along and ask questions to our guest of the day and have a continental breakfast. These services will be repeated in September. Some of us are going on a chapel exchange in mid August and we will be discussing this at Cereal Killers on 19th August.

Bob's Gardening Spot

August is the ideal time to take cuttings of shrubs; take a shoot that's semi ripe, about 3 inches long and just going woody at the base. Make up a compost of $\frac{1}{2}$ compost and $\frac{1}{2}$ sand, place the cuttings into the pots and put them in a cold frame covered with glass, but shade it with diluted white emulsion.

You need to keep deadheading tender perennials and roses to keep them making more flowers until the first frost stops the process.

Now you need to trim your hedges, cut them back to the point where the new growth shows long and whippy, but do not cut into old wood or you will stop the growth of the new wood

On the vegetable garden front you can still sow lettuce now but stick to the fast growing varieties like Tom Thumb or Little Gem. If you are wanting strawberries next year they will need to get settled before the frosts, so plant them now. You might also want to try some spring cabbage; plant the seeds about 6 inches apart in rows about a foot apart.

September is the best time to take cuttings of tender bedding plants such as Pelargoniums, Petunias, Marguerites, Fuchsias, Abutilons, Diascias and Osteoperum. Take about a 3 inch shoot, cut it just below a leaf, pull off the bottom leaves, leaving about 2 or 3 leaves at the top. Insert the cuttings about $\frac{1}{2}$ of the way down around the edge of a 4 inch pot filled with potting compost. Place them in a shaded cold frame until they are rooted then pot them on.

Happy Gardening.....Bob

1st Jacobstow Guides Update

Panda Patrol, spent Saturday 27th June in Truro competing for the Bolitho Sheild, a competition for guides in Cornwall; they had to make a carrier for a raw egg, which had to be carried on a treasure hunt around Truro city centre. They then had to make a catapult for their egg, as well as present their pennant (flag) to the judges and sing a song from World War I to which they had also choreographed a dance. The girls came a very worthy second in this grand final and had already come through two previous rounds to represent the North Cornwall division. Panda Patrol also took part in the grand final to represent Cornwall on the 11th July in the regional competition 'Cookafun', where they were given a bag of unknown ingredients and had to create a main course and a desert on a barbeque. Although they didn't win, the judges did praise them for their desert. We are very proud of the Panda Patrol who are our youngest patrol, competing against 12 other teams in this hard fought competition.

We have found people willing to run our Rainbow unit. Also someone is willing to lead the Brownie unit ,therefore we would love further adults helpers to run the unit. We hope to have both Units within Jacobstow up and running in September. If you would like further information please contact Mary Andrew 01840 230006.

COTTAGE FARM, JACOBSTOW pre-sented by Paul and Celia Sousek.

Cottage Farm was also an Open Farm and had their normal programme for open days which started with coffee, cakes and a presentation about the farm and sustainability. This was followed by a hosted farm tour.

FARM OPEN DAY

On Sunday 7 June we decided to give our grandchildren, ages 8, 5 and 3 an afternoon out visiting Broadlands Farm, "Open Farm Day".

I thought I should comment – What a wonderful afternoon, we all had. They really enjoyed being able to handle the baby calves and watch them close up being fed their milk (appreciating the strict hygiene they had to follow after handling the calves).

Despite their young age they were very interested in the layout of the farm, also how much one cow eats in a day to produce milk and how much butter and cheese that makes.

It was wonderful to see the breeds of cows and to read to them how an old cow there had produced a line of daughters, granddaughters and great granddaughters.

To my surprise they were also interested in how artificial insemination is done!

Our last visit was to the automated milking parlour which enthralled us all.

The boys enjoyed seeing the farm machinery, tractors etc up close.

Finally we went for tea, ice-creams and cakes put on by the cubs.

What a marvellous effort everyone had made to make the afternoon a great success.

BUSES

Have you all noticed There is a bus going through Jacobstow Village everyday? Yes! It goes through about 10.27am arriving in Bude 11.44pm then returns, leaving Bude at 1.05pm and arriving at Jacobstow at 1.25pm.

Why didn't they tell us so that some of us could use it? So please "HAIL" and use it so the management can't say it's not used and cancel it.

STOP PRESS: Jacobstow Art and Craft group begins again on Tuesday 29th September 2.00 pm at the Parish Hall.

The Bude Post Office says that this box's details have been sent to the contractors and will be repaired in about six weeks.

This is the second time that this box has been vandalised in five years. Previously the whole box was taken (being a rather collectable item) but the vandal left the letters behind for the postman! This time an explosion of say a firework would be needed to blow the front off.

Set just after the 2nd War, the main character, an author, starts a correspondence with an Islander. There the story progresses in a series of letters. There is illumination about the conditions on the Islands during occupation.

Generally well received.

The Good Earth by Pearl S Buck

Set in China prior to Chairman Mao, shows life in the Countryside as it has been for millennia. Tells the story of a hard working man from the time he marries through famine and plenty.

JACOBSTOW WALKING

There will be no walk in August. Next walk -Thursday 10th September. All welcome. Meet 10am Parish Hall

In the absence of Mary who is currently sailing around France, it might be more appropriate to refer to our group as the Jacobstow Ramblers. We decided to continue meeting monthly but it has to be said that both times we got lost! The first walk was on Thursday June 2nd and consisted of just myself and Barbara. We decided to see if we could remember our very first walk from Jacobstow to Ash. The weather was beautiful and we did well for the first hour. After that we decided it was best to walk back the way we had come as we couldn't remember the circular route and landmarks were not looking too familiar! Here is our selfie!

The next walk took place on Thursday 2nd July. This was well attended and we decided to try the walk we had done once before with Mary, taking cars to Treworgie and then leaving two more at Millook. We then took the footpath across fields to the woods. We soon came to the stream but there was some debate about where to cross and this is where we made our mistake! We walked through lovely woodland but realised we were lost. We walked up hill crossing a field carefully, walking along the edge with a healthy regard for some bullocks! We finally ended up on the road by the Old Brewery at Trewint and decided to phone John Penfound who saved the day by collecting us in his car! We had a good laugh and a real sense of camaraderie but look forward to Mary's return!

BROADLANDS FARM OPEN DAY by kind permission of the Bird family

Jon and I decided to have a Farm Open Day in memory of our father and to celebrate 60 years of the Marlbrook

Ayrshire herd. There were many Health and Safety hoops to go through in connection with the visitors having contact with animals and machinery, not to mention the slurry pit so loads of notices had to be in place with warnings.

We wanted everyone to experience a working farm, to see the machinery used to produce animal feed - the grass cutting, wrapping etc. Volac pink wrap was used as there is a scheme to donate to cancer charities.

We also wanted to include the local community and the Jacobstow Scouts did a sterling job with the catering.

Our tractor supplier brought modern tractors down from South Molton and Andrew Medland and the Mills family provided some vintage machinery so that the change over the years could be seen.

We had support from our vet, Tim of Castle Veterinary Group, Paul at Harpers Feed, Dairy Crest, Jacobstow Scouts, Catering by Jenny, James Pryce Tractors, G Nichols Contracting, M J Uglow Contracting, D P Parsons Contracting and Santander Banking.

We had 250 visitors, we would like to have had more but this area is very agricultural and consequently there is not a huge population, however everything was well received by all who came. Would we do it again? Maybe!

WEATHERWISE

by Monitor

May can be hopeless weather-wise, and this one was no exception. Polar weather systems dominated most of the month, some days only reached 15°C, and I noted only 11°C on the 19th. Often quite wet, but with no days exceptional rainfall, perhaps the 14th saw the most collected during the day at 0.62". The total amount collected for the month was 3.23" at Canworthy Water. I suppose one could have called the 23rd reasonably warm, a day maximum of 18.5°C was recorded, but the average for the month was only 13°C. The following day, noted for near-gale conditions, only managed 11°C!

June start was not very much better. The 1st was wet, and the 2nd day saw 0.73" of rain collected over-night. The 12th again saw a heavy rain period, 0.87" was collected in 5 hours during the afternoon. Of particular note, was the 22nd when only 13°C was observed to be the maximum during the day, with NNW winds direct from the Artic Circle, quite unusual for this time of year. Only last week saw matters warming up, but it took to the 30th to reach 23°C, the warmest day so far this summer. Total rain for June was 2.57"

Far away in the Tropical Atlantic all is quiet, so nothing to report.

Now you see it

..... now you don't!

We don't know when this was originally installed at Wainhouse Corner but we do know that it was removed on 25th June 2015. Apparently BT conducted a survey throughout the UK to find out which kiosks were not being used very much - and this was one of them. The kiosk next to the Parish Hall also had very little use, but the Parish Council managed to have that one retained as reception for mobile telephones in that area is very poor. BT have a policy that they cannot sell kiosks to individuals and only offer them to organisations (such as a Parish Council) or charities etc for the nominal sum of £1.00

This one has now gone to a good home at the Cornwall War Museum at Davidstow. Although it currently looks "sad and forlorn" it will be fully restored during the winter months when the museum is closed and the staff will have time to give it the attention it deserves.

W I Centenary Garden Party by Ilona Franklyn

I was lucky to represent Jacobstow W I at Buckingham Palace on the 2nd June. What a wonderful event it turned out to be, in spite of a dubious start! The weather was cold, foggy and raining added to which the coach taking us ladies to the Palace was very late, due to a taxi collecting some members to the coach, failing to arrive! Luckily the weather improved and by the time we were driving down The Mall, the sun was shining. The Palace was a sea of big hats! The gardens were beautiful. We had a close up view of Sophie, Duchess of Wessex who was charming and then joined the long line for our tea; sandwiches and cake, all very dainty and delicious. It was very windy and large hats were taking off in all directions which caused a lot of laughs. After a wander around and listening to the band we joined the massive queue for the toilets! It was then time to walk back to the coach. What a day it was and I feel very lucky to have been able to represent my W I. Six thousand ladies attended the event! We arrived back at 2.30 am, tired but very happy!

KIDS' PAGE: BEACH SAFETY

Summer's here and hopefully we'll be spending sunny days on the beach, but whilst it's hot, the cool kids learn from the lifeguards, all of whom are trained in beach safety.

Never swim alone and always swim between the flags.

How to recognize a rip tide:

If you saw the ocean wave void (like in picture 1) do not attempt to go into the sea. This is called a rip current. It is very strong and will pull you further out to sea.

The red arrow shows how the current will suck you out to sea..
The current is very strong.

The last picture shows how you should wave your arms to show you need help and then swim out to the side.

Bude Sea Pool and Crackington Surf Club run courses in beach safety.

Eileen Fry “How I came to Cornwall as a Land Girl”

In the last issue, we described how 17 year old Londoner Eileen, had just been accepted into the Women's Land Army and was about to move to Cornwall. Eileen caught the train to Liskeard and moved briefly into Penkubut House. Her new job was to work in pest destruction and to be based at Higher Crackington. Eileen moved in with the Rogers family as Mr Rogers (father of John Rogers) was doing war work as a pest control officer for the Land Army. Eileen's main work was trapping and killing moles, and she worked alongside many Italian POWs. Eileen was busy but she still had time to be crowned Crackington Carnival Queen! At this time there was another girl also working with her in Crackington called Yvonne and she and Eileen became firm friends. Eileen loved being back in the countryside again. Having been evacuated as a child from London to Oxford, Eileen found returning to London made her miss the countryside which she had come to love. However Eileen's fate was about to be sealed and her stay in Cornwall assured the night she went to a dance at the Legion Hall where she met Jack Fry. Another man offered Eileen a lift home, but Eileen liked Jack and he gave her a lift home on his motor bike! They married in 1953, Coronation year. Eileen loved animals and helped with the threshing, continuing her farm work until the arrival of her son David in 1955. Eileen still lives in the house she and Jack spent most of their married life in, in Canworthy Water.

The Government has been busy setting out its agenda and implementing its election manifesto before the summer recess starts. Already we have seen significant milestones being passed, including the Summer Budget, the announcement of English Votes on English Laws (EVEL), progression of The Scotland Bill (devolution) and the Assisted Dying Bill, as well as bringing forward the end to on-shore wind subsidy and the introduction of the EU Referendum Bill. Sadly, this period was overshadowed by the tragic events in Tunisia. Terror attacks are nothing but counterproductive for those who commit them, as the resolve of those affected only becomes stronger to repel such evil. Nothing proved this more than when the country stood united and remembered the events of 7/7 the following week. The Chancellor's recent budget was a budget that rewards hard-work, business and growth, while the welfare state, which saw us spiral into so much debt, was cut down to size. Among it was a compulsory living wage that will rise to £9/hr by 2020, a new 8% tax on bank profits, a new family home allowance of £175,000 per person on top of the £325,000 inheritance tax threshold, a commitment of 2% of GDP on defence spending, the abolition of 'non-dom' status so wealthy individuals who choose to live here pay more tax, a levy on large employers to take on more apprentices while their corporation tax is slashed to 19% to support the new living wage, and most importantly, an increase in NHS funding of £8bn on top of the £2bn that was pledged before the election. Welfare cuts will be spread over a longer period in order to reach a surplus a year later in 2019/20. Elements of welfare which concern disabled adults and children will not be reduced, while claimants of tax credits will be on a more even keel with those who do not claim them, but are likewise on lower incomes. The Government will look at devolving some powers to Cornwall Council, as well as addressing the threat to small cider producers, where the EU is trying to lift their excise duty exemptions. I have signed an Early Day Motion to reject this, and have had personal reassurance from the Treasury that efforts will be made to address this in Brussels. I have shown visitors to London around the Houses of Parliament and attended several local events in North Cornwall and through August I will be holding surgeries and attending more events, so if you see me about, feel welcome to chat.

EXTRACTS FROM ARTICLE ON MUD! By Margaret Withers

After a long muddy walk we were discussing how in the Arctic there are many words for snow. Now think England and the West Country - we have nearly as many words for mud!

With this fact in mind I loaded the computer with the CD ROM of the Oxford English Dictionary and asked for words to do with mud. The result was astounding, in all there were 111 words with muddy in their definitions and 313 whose definitions include the word mud. Obviously some are fairly archaic but why don't you try it!

MAY BE CORRECT ON 17 JULY 2015!!
